

recognized by every one as the very best protection money which could be accepted. In the language of Senator Lodge himself they represented the "irreducible minimum." Personally I am unable to see how there can be any compromise when the least measure of protective American rights and American nationality possible has been attained in these reservations which the Republicans can accept. For one I am not prepared to see how there can be any compromise of American honor or of American position. They enslave their children's children who make compromise with sin.

It was evident altogether that the meeting of the irreconcilables and Senators Lodge and New had been a tense occasion. Without a word of authority from inside the bipartisan conference it had been assumed that the Republicans were willing to accept something. No one knew quite what it was and out of the discussions there came from the Republicans only admissions that language changes have been considered. It is said that not a single one of the reservations has been considered or that any change in the original character has taken place in any one of them.

The preamble with its provision for the reference of the reservations to the high contracting parties of the Paris conference, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, with necessary acceptance in terms from three at least of the four, is reported to have been relinquished by the Republicans. It is a provision of dubious necessity at best, but even upon this the irreconcilables may want to stir up a battle in the final consideration of the treaty.

Upon emerging from the conference Senator Sherman said: "If the Republican party at the Chicago convention wants to stand on the Lodge reservations I would accept the platform. But if there is the slightest yielding on the Lodge reservations, I am through with the party. Let there be no misunderstanding. I am not a Republican. I am not a supporter of the Republican organization in the Senate or in the country if it compromises on the Lodge reservations. In plain language, I will bolt even to the point of supporting a bill to repeal the Senate ratification of the treaty."

Senator Brandegee and Senator Borah repeatedly have stated they would quit the Republican party if it stood for the peace treaty. Senator Butler (N. Y.), a strong reservationist, following the example of Senator Frelinghuysen, went to Senator Lodge and told him he would not support any action and would support the platform. But if there is the slightest yielding on the whole treaty, Mr. Sutherland said later, "I am through with the party. Let there be no misunderstanding. I am not a Republican. I am not a supporter of the Republican organization in the Senate or in the country if it compromises on the Lodge reservations. In plain language, I will bolt even to the point of supporting a bill to repeal the Senate ratification of the treaty."

CARRANZA ORDERED RAIDS, IS CONFESSION

Evidence Is Produced at Senate Inquiry.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 23.—County sheriffs and officers of the Ranger service, customs collectors and District Attorneys testified before the Senate subcommittee investigating the Mexican situation today they never had succeeded in obtaining from the Mexican authorities any cooperation in the prevention of border raids. The declaration of these witnesses was supported by that of others, who added to the committee's record details of many attacks made by Mexicans during the border war of 1915-1916.

Testimony corroborative of charges that Carranza and other Mexican officials were aware of and encouraged the raids, who were operating under the "plan of San Diego," was given by Sheriff Octavio Guerra, a naturalized citizen of Starr county, told of a confession made to him by one of the raiders whom he captured, in which he was informed Carranza soldiers were the raiders, and that their movements were directed by Carranza officers. Documentary evidence to the same effect was presented. It was the attested confession of a Mexican prisoner and had been made a part of a report rendered by Capt. Anderson, then commanding Troop A, Twelfth Cavalry.

The prisoner had signed the statement, saying his detachment was a small army unit commanded by a Mayor of the regular establishment. In the orders read to them they were told they were to assist in recovering land taken by the United States from Mexico. The Mayor, the prisoner had added, stated that Carranza had no orders.

CLAREMONT'S VALUE CUT $11,300 YEARLY

Prohibition Hits City's Revenue Hard on Tavern.

Just imagine starting out in your car for a week end trip down East and when you get to Riverside Drive, just below 127th street, saying to whoever happens to be in the bus with you:

"Come on! Let's drop off in the Claremont for a couple of shots of milk and a lettuce sandwich. I've had a big week and I need a milk or two to clear my old head."

And you and your companion drain a couple of beakers of 100 per cent. cow milk and emerge from the Claremont Inn with a new interest in life and a keener zest for the delights of a week end down East.

Yesterday Claremont Inn, where you could get a missed state highball for as little as 75 cents and a grilled pork chop for a mere $2, and for the restaurant and bar privileges of which famous taverner R. A. Guheen paid the city $20,000 every January 1, was leased to F. R. Wood for $2,000 a year, and the lease carries with it exclusive rights to dispense milk upon those fine old alcoholic premises.

Mr. Wood's lease runs for five years. John P. Magner of Rye, N. Y., wanted the place, but quit when the $20,000 mark was reached. Mr. Wood is a real estate broker. He did not say for whom he was bidding. The award of the famous Riverside tavern was made in the office of Park Commissioner Francis D. Gillatin.

NAVY MORALE HURT BY DANIELS AWARDS

Rear Admiral Knight and Coffman Admit Methods Work Harm to Service.

ARE SILENT ON CRITICISM

Senate Sub-Committee Told 405 of 1,146 Recommendations Were Changed.

Special Dispatch to The Sun.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The frank admission that the morale of the navy had been injured by the Daniels method of awarding decorations was made before the subcommittee today by members of Rear Admiral Knight's special board of awards who had the distribution in hand.

Rear Admiral Knight and Rear Admiral Coffman both discussed at length the effect which the controversy and the intrusion of Secretary Daniels' own peculiar views as to the purposes and ends to be met in distributing decorations had on the navy in general. Both admitted that only hesitation at criticizing a superior officer had forced them to maintain silence. They also admitted that the overruling of their recommendations by the Secretary had been a most unwise episode in their respective naval careers.

Rear Admiral Knight told the committee that of 1,146 recommendations made by the Knight Board for Distinguished Service Medals and Navy Crosses, 405 were changed, at which Secretary Hale (Me.), chairman of the subcommittee, asked, turning to Rear Admiral Coffman:

"What effect do you think it will have on the Navy to have your recommendations turned down?"

Cannot Criticize, He Says.

"I am such a firm believer in the morale of the Navy that while it is not a temporary matter, I don't believe have a temporary effect. I believe the Navy will stand up when the pinch comes."

"But dissatisfaction is bound to ensue when a recommendation is turned down," said Rear Admiral Knight. "I believe the good sense and loyalty of the Navy will prevent any permanent injury to the Navy's morale."

Then Rear Admiral Coffman went on to say that three of the eleven men he recommended got nothing. "But it is something I cannot criticize," he said. "You think these changes were made ruthlessly," Senator Hale asked.

"I do not like to answer the question in that form," was the reply. "But they were changed, and the board ordered. When those recommendations were changed, it was something that I felt and felt deeply."

Rear Admiral Sims' original charge that Secretary Daniels and the Knight board had changed the order of relative merit was explained by Rear Admiral Knight by saying that no information as to relative merits of the men recommended had been made.

DIFFERS WITH DANIELS

"You differ from the Secretary's view that a man should be rewarded for losing his ship," Senator Hale suggested.

"I do." "The fact that a man has lost his ship is to be considered against him," Senator Hale suggested.

"Never in his favor," was the answer. Admiral Knight explained: The board is unable to accept the view that a man who is captured constitutes in itself a claim to recognition even when followed by meritorious service unless such service is in some measure connected with operations, offensive or defensive, directed against the enemy.

"Commander Bagley was not recommended by his naval superior for anything connected with the sinking of the Jacob Jones. He was recommended for a navy cross for good seamanship displayed in taking off the crew and passengers of the torpedoed British steamship Orana, and was included by the board in the general list of destroyer commanders recommended for that cross."

PAINTS ERZBERGER AS ANNEXATIONIST

Sought French Ore Basin, Says Libel Witness.

BENLIN, Jan. 23.—Mathias Erzberger's alleged political metamorphosis had a conspicuous part in today's hearing of his libel action against Karl Helfferich, formerly Vice-Chancellor. The latter told of Herr Erzberger's connection with the big German iron firm of Thyssen, and said that Herr Erzberger had agreed to stimulate public sentiment in favor of the annexation of the French ore basin. He also accused him of developing an annexationist programme and submitting it to Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, Admiral von Tirpitz, late Lieut.-Gen. von Moellie and Gen. Falkenhayn and others.

Herr Erzberger, who is Vice-Premier and Finance Minister, admitted having drawn 100,000 marks as Thyssen's director for two and a half years, but said he resigned after the Reichstag's peace resolution was adopted, because he believed that further cooperation with the company was impossible in view of his altered political programme. August Thyssen, elder member of the firm, was subpoenaed but was unable to appear because of illness. The court decided to send special commissioners to examine him on his home.

ROME, Jan. 23.—A sum aggregating 1,000,000 lire ($200,000 at normal exchange) has been subscribed through the Osservatore Romano as a result of the appeal of Pope Benedict for the relief of children victims of the war. This is aside from the subscription requested from all dioceses in the world December 28.

HOUSE PASSES BILL RAISING NAVY PAY

Increase of One-third for Enlisted Men.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Increase of approximately one-third in the base pay of all enlisted men in the navy, and the Coast Guard, except recruits, is provided for in a bill passed today by the House and sent to the Senate. The vote was 211 to 10. The measure, retroactive to last January 1, would continue until July 1, 1921.

No increase for officers was provided by the bill. Representative Kelley (Mich.), who had charge of the measure, explaining that it was desired to hurry pay relief for enlisted men, who are leaving the navy "at an alarming rate." He added that officers might be provided for later. The increase for men was estimated at $10,000,000.

Under the measure an annual bonus of $450 would be given to commissioned officers and of $240 to warrant officers, while the monthly base pay of other enlisted men would be fixed as follows: Chief petty officers, $126; leading chief petty officers, $99; petty officers, first class, $84; second class, $72; third class, $60; non-rated men, first class, $54; second class, $48; third class, $42; firemen, first class, $60; second class, $54; third class, $48; cabin stewards and cooks, $34; wardroom and steerage cooks and stewards, $72; warrant officers' stewards and cooks, $60; mess attendants, first class, $42; second class, $36, and third class, $32.

JERSEY SURF YIELDS 4 BARRELS OF RUM

Investigators of Report Are Strangely Tardy.

A friend of The Sun sent this disturbing telegram from Atlantic Highlands, N. J., yesterday:

Editor: Barrels of rum and whiskey are coming ashore along New Jersey coast. As soon as possible this newspaper telephoned to the U. S. Coast Guard for the details of the demerit assault from the ocean. One of his helpers reported that, lingering only long enough to report the arrival of four barrels on the lower shore, he had departed in the fastest automobile obtainable in the direction indicated.

The helper related on his own account that the barrels had been found floating and brought ashore by fishermen, that the stuff had been sampled and that it was prime. His suggestion that it was part of the jettisoned cargo of the freighter Yarmouth, which sailed from New York for Havana on Saturday with $2,000,000 worth of liquor and a terrible list to starboard, and after waiting an S. O. S. call was succeeded by the Coast Guard cutter Seneca and towed back to lower New York harbor.

The Sun called up another man who lives not far from Long Branch. He said he didn't believe the story, but would see the fishermen, find out if it was true and telephone his report. That was at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He has not been heard from yet.

FREIGHTER ARRIVES WITH JERSEY CATTLE

One Prize Bull, Worth $10,000, Dies on Trip.

The freighter Manhattan arrived yesterday with 250 head of cattle from the Island of Jersey, obtained by the Veterinary College of New York University for distribution to breeding farms in this State, New Jersey and Connecticut. One of the two prize bulls in the herd, valued at $10,000, died during the unusually long trip, and a calf was born to a prize cow.

The faculty and students of the Veterinary College visited the ship, which arrived and inspected the cattle, which are considered the best for milk production, according to W. Horace Hoskins, dean of the faculty. He says the milk and butter of the country have deteriorated and the importation will help restore them to their former quality.

LONG CHASE LANDS ALLEGED SWINDLER

Moffitt, Hunted in Many Cities, Reported Caught.

William H. Moffitt, genius of the dollar a week real estate game, who has been sought since December 1918, in England, France, Canada and Western cities on an indictment charging grand larceny, was reported last night to have been taken into custody by the police of San Jose, Cal. A telegram received at Police Headquarters brought the news of the capture of the alleged real estate swindler, whose real estate schemes are said to have rolled up millions for him.

Moffitt was indicted on the complaint of Rafael Russo, who charged that the real estate man sold him two lots at Hempstead, L. I., with the understanding that there was no incumbrance on the lots. Russo said he had been deceived, as the property was included in a mortgage claim held by another person.

Following the complaint of Russo the District Attorney made an investigation of the transactions of Moffitt in the realty world and found, it is alleged, that he had victimized some three hundred persons by the sale of fake titles and property which he never really had owned to the sum of $1,000,000. Most of the complaints against Moffitt involve the sale of property covered by prior lien mortgages. He lived in luxury on Riverside Drive and maintained a home at Bay Shore, L. I.

BRING GRIM STORIES OF RESCUES AT SEA

Passengers of Transport Powhatan Due in Hoboken This Morning.

LAST A. E. F. UNITS ALSO

Women and Children Transferred in Night Storm Without Loss.

The army transport Northern Pacific will dock at Pier 3, Hoboken, at 3:30 o'clock this morning. It was announced last night by the Army Information Bureau. She brings not only one of the last contingents of the A. E. F. from France, but also the 271 passengers of the transport Powhatan which, helpless, without lights and short of food, wallowed for six days and nights about 700 miles east of Sandy Hook.

The sufferings of the Powhatan's company, which included eleven women and two children in addition to officers and men of the army, taken together with the thrilling story of the rescue at night by the Northern Pacific after two doughty destroyers had stood by, battered by tremendous seas, makes one of the tenses stories of the sea in many years. The transfer was made in the glare of searchlights, the women and children being sent in the first lifeboat, and the whole undertaking was carried out without halt, hitch or accident, according to reports received yesterday.

Among the passengers are Col. and Mrs. John M. Dunn, Capt. Oscar B. Ralla, Jr., Lieut. Charles McKinley, Capt. William E. S. and Mrs. A. W. Weston, Capt. G. A. Holiday, Lieut. Edward Goldberg, Lieutenant-Commander Howard H. Crosby, Capt. Thomas Peasater and two children, San Antonio, Tex.; Mrs. Margaret B. Shippey, Raleigh, N. C., mother of Capt. Shippey; Mrs. Henry E. Worden, wife of Lieutenant Colonel Worden of McKinley, Tex.; and her three children; Mr. and Mrs. Fayette W. Allport, Cleveland, and Miss Dorothy M. Dunn and Miss Edith Gardner, army nurses.

None in Sick List

The news flashed to the port of debarkation and to the office of Major Gen. David C. Shanks, commanding list, last night, that the rescued passengers have recovered from their terrific experience and nobody is on the sick or disabled list.

The Rocky Mountain Club, which decided to spend $10,000 for the happiness and comfort of soldiers and sailors instead of using it to build a clubhouse, is going down the bay on its welcome steamship, the Princess, early this morning to meet the Northern Pacific and to give all a rousing welcome. The Rocky Mountain Club's boat will leave Hoboken at 7:15 A. M. On board breakfast will be served, consisting of coffee, buns, hard boiled eggs and pie—just what 1,200,000 doughboys landing at Hoboken have been getting since troops began to arrive.

The progress of the Powhatan toward Halifax in tow of the Canadian Government steamship Lady Laurier, which was towed by the Powhatan, was slow because of the weakness of the towing lines, ten inches in circumference, which, Capt. Randall feared, would snap under strain of the full power of the Lady Laurier. Capt. Randall said a wireless saying that he had sent a wireless vessel with a gear heavier than ten-inch manila, which is the heaviest in the fleet now present and will not hold if a hauler comes up. Lady Laurier is not pulling full speed in fear of parting line now in use. In response to the skipper's appeal heavier towing hawsers were sent on Thursday night by the tugboats and the Powhatan will help restore them to their former quality.

Destroyers Standing By

The Coast Guard cutter Ossipee, according to radio received here, was assisting in towing the Powhatan, and the destroyers Leary and Sharkey were standing by for emergencies. The War Department gave out a statement yesterday saying that the Lady Laurier had been chartered to aid the Powhatan and that it took two days to complete the transaction resulting in the acquisition of the Canadian ship. The last reports from the Powhatan said she probably would reach Halifax early this morning, provided the comparatively good weather held.

The American Red Cross announced last night that pursuant to the request of the War Department it had dispatched workers to Halifax to assist in caring for the crew of the Powhatan and that it would have a delegation at Hoboken this morning to attend to the needs of the 271 passengers transferred from the disabled transport to the Northern Pacific. Special provision will be made for the women and children should they be in distress after their experience on the heaviest and lightest ship.

GERMAN MERCHANTS ARRIVE

Five Here to Buy Furs Required to Furnish Bonds.

Five German merchants arrived yesterday by the Holland America steamship Noordam to buy furs at an auction in St. Louis. They had special passports vouchered by the American Consul at Rotterdam, but they were required also to furnish bonds. They said that Germany was now depending on America for furs, being unable, as in the past, to get pelts from Russia.

France Milner, born in the American consulate at Calais, when his father became Consul General there twenty years ago, arrived to take a look at his own country. He will visit an elder brother in Trenton and then go to see his father, who is the American Consul at Niagara Falls, Canada.

GRANT IS REBUKED; ESCAPES DISCIPLINE

remains to be seen. It would be difficult for the rector to the bishopric house for his Forum at present because the Forum has grown to a considerable size within the last year and the church room is scarcely large enough to house the crowds that turn out to hear the tilts between radicalism and conservatism at its sessions.

The Rev. Dr. G. A. Carstanen of Holy Rood Church stated a week ago that three clergymen would aid Dr. Grant's trial on ecclesiastical charges in event of his escaping discipline under the complaints then before the Bishop. He said that these clergymen were merely waiting for the Bishop to dispose of the matters at hand before taking new action.

Dr. Grant's Plea to Bishop

In making his letter to Dr. Grant public without comment Bishop Durr had made public copies of a letter that he received from the rector of the Church of the Ascension last week. In it Dr. Grant wrote:

"The sailing of the Buford, it seemed to me, was the denial of asylum in America to foreigners. It is a form of punishment alien to the spirit of American institutions. America is a place of welcome except for the very sensible provisions of the immigration law, by which the insane, contagiously sick and paupers are not admitted—and would not have been put on the ships that landed them if the agents of the steamship companies in Europe had done their duty. Once here, our institutions, I believe, are adequate for men and women, healthy in body and brain, whatever their ideas."

"I have no sympathy or excuse for acts of violence. But let an alien as well as a citizen be tried before a judge and jury."

"Sending aliens out of the country, practically on the recommendations of employees of the Immigration Department, is not in harmony with our institutions."

"I do not need to tell a brother clergyman that I consider I can show sympathy and aid in any way without approving his acts. Sympathy with suffering is not collusion with crime.

"As to the amnesty parade Christmas morning: It was entirely within the law, as I knew when I gave permission for it to assemble."

"What position would a church be put in that refused the request of highly intelligent young women and young men to come together on Christmas morning in one of its halls in order that they might sing the gospel of Christmas Day—peace on earth, good will toward men—not only to the east, in the tunes of actual Christmas carols which they did, but to the eyes, in specific appeal on behalf of given cases demanding peace and good will at present before the public?"

"The police captain of our district saw the placards and the people and said they were all right. Judge Corrigan said the marchers were within their rights."

"You may like to know that during the war American Parish put its parish house at the disposal of the draft board, which used it for many months, and that war activities of a humane sort also went on there. At the outbreak of the war I had representations made at Washington looking to my being sent to France."

"During the revolutionary war the church largely took the Tory side—at any rate in New England—and in consequence was dead there for 100 years. All but four of the Massachusetts clergy left Boston when the British army evacuated. In the discussion of slavery, so far as I remember, the church was silent. Now it is a third—and possibly a last—opportunity to place itself on the side of the people and of freedom."

WHITLA'S KIDNAPPER IS DEAD IN PRISON

Boyle, Who Startled U. S. in 1909, Was Serving Life Term.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 23.—"Jimmy" Boyle, convicted of kidnapping Willis Whitla of Sharon, Pa., in 1909, died of pneumonia in the Allegheny Penitentiary today. He had been ill for a week.

Boyle was sentenced to life imprisonment May 10, 1909, for kidnapping Willis Whitla, the eight-year-old son of a wealthy Sharon, Pa., attorney. His wife, Helen Boyle, who was convicted of complicity in the crime, was sentenced to twenty-five years imprisonment.

The kidnapping, which was sensational, aroused national interest. The day after their boy disappeared the Whitlas received the following letter:

"Boyle will kill him. Send us $10,000 or we will kill him. To do this insert this ad. in the Cleveland Leader and the Pittsburgh papers."

"A. A. I will do as you desire, J. P. W."

After two unsuccessful attempts to ransom the child the money was paid in Cleveland and the boy was returned. The Boyles were captured a few days later in Cleveland through secret marks on the bills they had received.

WATER DEVELOPMENT URGED

Conservation Commission Embodies Suggestions in Report.

ALBANY, Jan. 23.—The ninth annual report of the State Conservation Commission, which is about to be submitted to the Legislature by Commissioner George D. Pratt, urges as the first and most important step in the development of water power throughout the State the control of stream flow by storage reservoirs constructed, owned and operated by the State.

Preparation of engineering plans for the immediate development by the State of the enormous water power on the St. Lawrence and Niagara rivers, and the institution of negotiations with the national Government and Canada to clear away any obstacles in the way of such development, are further recommendations. Commissioner Pratt points out that the market for a large part of these greatest water powers in the State already exists and that if the State does not immediately proceed to secure its rights in these boundary waters there is grave danger that it may forever lose them to the Federal Government.

ANTONY AND CLEOPATRA

When Cleopatra praised the delicacy of a supper given by Antony, he immediately called for the cook and presented him with a city.

When the modern Antony hears his Cleopatra praise the delicacy of a supper at CHILDS, he doesn't give the cook a city.

No, indeed! He presents his lady love with an engagement ring, in appreciation of her good taste in matters culinary.

Oysters were a supper delicacy then, as they are now—highly breaded and fried to a golden brown.
